“Nature Activities for Children” is a four-volume series on the four seasons which offers kindergarten and school teachers and parents a wealth of ideas for nature-based education.

This book is packed full of fun nature activities that will help children engage with the season and learn practical new skills.

Activities for winter include making an Advent wreath, blowing walnut ships, making Christmas branches flower, working with wool, weaving, knitting, making felt, woodworking and making things with willow and out of clay. The activities in this book are based on practical experience from the Children's Nature and Garden Centre in Germany, and are fully tried and tested.

- Wide range of applications (kindergartens, project days, primary schools, holiday facilities).
- Environmental education: teaching children about nature conservation.
- Recommended by many institutions for environmental and nature conservation.

Irmgard Kutsch, born 1952, trained as a vet before working with children with special needs. She established the Children's Nature and Garden Centre in Reichshof in 1994, where children and teachers can learn about nature and participate in workshops.

Brigitte Walden, born 1953, worked as a teacher for fifteen years. She has been a carer at Haus Hohenfried in Germany, a centre for people with special needs, for nine years.
